

In talking to my colleagues about her I find that we all agree that she is academically gifted, and will do very well in her graduate studies.